M Convertibles

31 DECEMBER 2024

PORTFOLIO

December was marked by notable divergences in the stock markets, with trends reversing compared to November. Except for the Nasdaq, most U.S. equities markets declined, while the majority of other international stock exchanges posted gains. The Federal Reserve implemented a third rate cut but is expected to pause afterward. The European Central Bank continues its monetary easing, while China is gradually advancing its stimulus measures.

European convertible bonds ended the month near their early December levels. M Convertibles achieved a significantly positive annual performance for the second consecutive year, gaining 6.84% in 2024.

The international primary market recorded one of its strongest years, with $119 billion in issuances, although the European market proved less active than expected. In December, one issuance emerged in Europe: Alphawave 3.75% 2030. Following a strong rally, we reduced our position in Saipem 2.875% 2029 and increased our holdings in Tui 1.95% 2031 and BOFA/Total 0% 2026.

FOCUS: KLEPIERRE

SDG 8

Founded in 1990, Klépierre is now the European leader in shopping centers. The group owns over 70 shopping centers in the 40 largest European cities, representing a portfolio value of €19.9 billion as of June 30, 2024.

The latest quarterly results confirm the group's strong operational momentum, supported by robust leasing activity. Rental income increased by +6% YoY as of 9M 2024, driven by 1,280 new leases signed (+7% YoY) and an improvement in the occupancy rate to 96.5% (+70 bps YoY). This strong performance enabled the group to raise its 2024 guidance, with its EBITDA growth target now set at 6%, up from 5% previously.

In addition to strong operational indicators, the group benefits from a solid balance sheet with healthy financial ratios. S&P upgraded its credit outlook from stable to positive in May 2024.

Simon Property Group, one of the global leaders in the shopping center industry and a 22% stakeholder in Klépierre, issued an exchangeable bond into Klépierre shares in November 2023. The €750 million bond, with a 3.5% coupon, matures in November 2026.
